

Speculations (French Edition)

Alfred Jarry, né à Laval (Mayenne) le 8 septembre 1873 et mort à Paris le 1er novembre 1907, est un poète, romancier, écrivain et dramaturge français. Il fut aussi dessinateur et graveur. Édition récente adaptée aux liseuses, parue en 1901 dans La revue blanche avec table des matières dynamique. Extrait : Un de nos amis, militaire comme il convient sinon il ne serait pas notre ami ! nous communique le fruit de ses observations qu'il fit en Chine au sujet du curieux animal aquatique par nous déjà décrit [1] : le Noyé. Ce vertébré à sang froid prouva, au moins en Chine, au contact de nos braves troupiers, qu'il n'était pas réfractaire à toute espèce de culture ou, si l'on veut, de pisciculture. Notre ami fut témoin de ce fait que contrairement à notre allégation comme quoi les noyés ne voyagent point par bancs l'on en rencontra fréquemment des troupes, dans les fleuves du Céleste-Empire, lesquelles descendaient, selon leurs mœurs connues, le fil de l'eau. À ne pas douter, il y avait tentative intelligente de la part de ces créatures à imiter, un peu simiesquement peut-être, le bel ordre et la cohésion qui régnaient dans les armées. Ce qui laisse à penser qu'il y eut bien imitation, c'est que ce rassemblement par bancs dans les fleuves avait lieu, inmanquablement, à proximité des bancs militaires. Les noyés chinois, pour plus de solidarité, voyageaient au nombre de plusieurs milliers, à la remorque les uns des autres par leurs queues. Nos soldats, touchés de cet hommage rendu à la discipline, mériteraient bien de la Société protectrice des Animaux en ne les inquiétant point dans leur élément et même en favorisant l'accroissement de leur nombre. Ajoutons à l'information de notre ami quelques nouveaux détails, qui compléteront l'histoire naturelle artificielle de l'animal.
