

Mr. Peters Connections (Penguin Plays)

Produced in May 1998 in New York and starring Peter Falk, Mr. Peters Connections takes place, in Millers own words, in that suspended state of consciousness when the mind is freed to roam from real memories to conjectures, from trivialities to tragic insights, from terror of death to glorying in ones being alive. Within the confines of his mind, Mr. Peters interacts with the living members of his family and his long-deceased brother and lover, as well as the imaginary Adele, a black bag lady, who is a figment of Peters imagination and one of Millers most original characters. A work of rare honesty and dignity (Fintan OToole, New York Daily News), Mr. Peters Connections uncoils with ferocious, life-affirming intensity.
