

Driven from Home - Carl Crawford's Experience

[...] Poor Carl! How long has this been so? From the beginning ever since Mrs. Crawford came into the house. What are your relations with your step-brother what's his name? Peter Cook. I despise the boy, for he is mean, and tyrannical where he dares to be. I don't think it would be safe for him to bully you, Carl. He tried it, and got a good thrashing. You can imagine what followed. He ran, crying to his mother, and his version of the story was believed. I was confined to my room for a week, and forced to live on bread and water. I shouldn't think your father was a man to inflict such a punishment. It wasn't heit was my stepmother. She insisted upon it, and he yielded. I heard afterwards from one of the servants that he wanted me released at the end of twenty-four hours, but she would not consent. How long ago was this? It happened when I was twelve. Was it ever repeated? Yes, a month later; but the punishment lasted only for two days. And you submitted to it? [...].
