Not illustrated. 1905 Excerpt: ... everything shocking in Algiers? But certainly, monsieur. For a consideration. Name your price. Two hundred pounds, monsieur. Mr. Greyne started. It seemed a high figure. Monsieur thought it would be more? I make a special price, because I have taken a fancy to monsieur. I remove fifty pounds. Monsieur, of course, will pay all expenses. Of course, of course. It was no time to draw back. How long will it take? To see all the shocking? The Black Spaniel. 11 Precisely. There is a good deal. A fortnight, three weeks. It depends on monsieur. If he is strong, and can do without sleep We shall have to be up at night? Naturally. I shall go to bed during the day, and get through it in a fortnight. Perfectly. Be at the Grand Hotel to-night at ten o'clock precisely. At ten o'clock I will be there. Monsieur will pay a little in advance? Here are twenty pounds, cried Mr. Greyne recklessly. The audacious-looking young man took the notes with decision, made a graceful salute, and disappeared in the direction of the quay, while Mr. Greyne walked to his hotel, flushed with excitement, and feeling like the most desperate criminal in Africa. If the militia could see him now! At dinner he drank a bottle of champagne, and afterwards smoked a strong cigar over his coffee and liqueur. As he was finishing these frantic enjoyments the head waiter--a personage bearing a strong resemblance to an enlarged edition of Napoleon the First--approached him rather furtively, and, bending down; whispered in his ear: A gentleman has called to take monsieur to the Kasbah. Mr. Greyne star...
