PREFACE The Prose Works of Wordsworth have never till now been brought together in chronological order, nor have the Prefaces and Appendices to his Poems, his Essays, Addresses, and such books as his Description of the Scenery of the Lakes, been separated from his Letters, and his Notes to his Poems; and there is some difficulty in doing so, in the present edition. Many of his Letters were, in reality, long Essays ; and some of these were reproduced in the Memoirs, written by his nephew, and published in 1851. Others were first published in The Prose Works of William Wordsworth, edited by Dr. Grosart, in 1876. These Prose Works contain much that will be found in the subsequent volumes of this edition, devoted exclusively to the Poets Letters, and to those of his sister. I think it wise to detach the Letters, as far as possible, from the Prose Works. It is not always possible. The letter to the Bishop of Landaff, for example, and the Letter to a Friend of Robert Burns,--both of which are long Essays--must be placed in the Prose Works. These works were never brought together till Dr. Grosart edited them in 1876. I write with the greatest respect of Dr. Grosarts labour, and of the services which he rendered to the memory of Wordsworth, by his edition of that year. He . did great service, but my admiration for his work does not blind me to certain things, which detract from its perfection. It was a mistake to include in The Prose Works of Wordsworth the letter of Professor Wilson to The Friend signed Mathetes, without a very clear indication, in the table of contents, as well as in the text, that it was not written by Wordsworth. I have spoken elsewhere of the title,
